THE TIPPERARY VINDICATOR, AND LIMERICK REPORTER FRIDAY EVENING FEBRUARY 1 1867

LIMERICK,
ITS HISTORY AND ANTIQUITIES,
By MAURICE LENIHAN, Esq., J.P.,
Dublin: Hodges, Smith, and Co.,
Publishers.

SUBSCRIBERS to the above Work, which has been so extensively well received by the Nobility and Gentry of the Press, of all shades of party and politics, are respectfully informed that they can have their copies sent on application to the Office of the Author, No. 2, Patrick-street, Limerick. A Post-office Order for 11s. will free the Volume by Book-post.
May 18th, 1866. (6170)

From the Irish Times of Tuesday, April 17th, 1866.

It is fortunate that a gentleman so fully versed in antiquarian lore as Mr. Lenihan, so thoroughly acquainted with the Limerick annals, and with the ancient history and the local traditions of time and the vicissitudes of the 19th century has undertaken the task of writing the Book of Limerick. Possessing the seal-ered records of by gone centuries, Mr. Lenihan is implored with all the enthusiasm of a natural-born lover of his native city, and with the discretion of the critical antiquarian, he has lifted the veil from dim ages. His style is lucid, thoughtful, and yet pleasant, and there and there he runs into real eloquence. The extent of his knowledge may be estimated by the fulness and accuracy of his notes, and by his evident study of all antiquities which could throw light upon his inquiries.—There is a peculiar propriety in the dedication of the work to the Earl of Dunraven, not alone as the Lord Lieutenant of the county and one of the most enthusiastic amongst our rural archæologists in Ireland, but further, as a descendant of Celtic Princes, dwelling in the midst of ancient Celtic lore, and in fact himself a home—in which a race more Irish than the aborigines was the allegiance and devotion to the rights of the children of the soil. It is impossible to do justice to the work within the space allotted to a notice, and the description of the extent and variety of Mr. Lenihan's labour.

The Sufferers by the Great Inundations OF WEST OF FRANCE.

THE amount of suffering and destitution caused by the inundations in the West of France, has awakened the sympathy of many parts of Europe.

The Clergy of Ireland own France a debt of gratitude which more money can never pay. In the old times France was everything to the Irish Church; and in modern times French priests have almost universally interwoven itself with the wrongs and hopes of Ireland.

Even in money we have received THOUSANDS OF POUNDS from France when we wanted help sorely. And in connection with her benevolence, she never forget the grand discoursed PRIZE, the Bishop of Orleans, whose own diocese is one of the place now bent down under a weight of poverty and misfortune.

It was thought by some persons interested in this cause that an OFFERING FROM THE PARSONS OF IRELAND would be a graceful acknowledgment of their ancient kindness and benevolence.

If you approve of this sentiment, please send your alms to the office of this Paper, No. 2, George-street, Limerick.

The amount of each subscription has been limited to Five Shillings, in order to make the list extensive and to suit the necessities of the times.

Direct—
VERY REV. RICHARD B. O'BRIEN, D.D., V.G.,
Dean of Limerick.

TESTIMONIAL

EDWARD CURLING, ESQ., J.P.,
NEWCASTLE WEST.

AT a Meeting of the Gentry, Clergy and Farmers of Newcastle West, held in the Court House, of that Town, on Thursday, the 24th January, the

EDWARD J. STRAIN, ESQ., M.P., in the Chair, with the object of making arrangements for presenting a Testimonial to EDWARD CURLING, ESQ., J.P., for the many benefits conferred by him upon the district generally, as well as the immediate inhabitants, the following Resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

Proposed by FLORENCE O'CONNELL, Esq., seconded by THOMAS CROWE, Esq.

RESOLVED—That Michael Moore, Esq., do act as Secretary to this meeting.

Proposed by JOHN J. PURLONG, Esq., seconded by the Rev. MARTIN RYAN, P.P.

RESOLVED—"That we congratulate ourselves and the public generally, on the opening of the Rathkeale and Newcastle Junction Railway, which is connected with unmerited obloquy, by the inhabitants of this district and the towns with which it is connected; a commercial necessity; granted in this project has not been promoted, like many others, as a monetary speculation, but has been brought to a successful issue by the Proprietors of Land; the Merchants connected with the Town of Newcastle, and the hearty co-operation of the occupiers of land."

Proposed by HUGH MURRAY QUIN, Esq., J.P., seconded by JOHN O'CONNELL, Esq., J.P.

RESOLVED—"That while we feel our best thanks and gratitude are due to the Earl of Dunraven, for his large pecuniary sacrifices to advance the welfare of his tenantry, and for the great mental labour and anxiety he has bestowed on promoting the undertaking; and to other proprietors, who have contributed to improvement of their best interests, particularly to William Malcomson, Esq., Robert W. O'Brien, Esq., and the other contributors to the "Completion Fund," yet we consider that the happy result of the undertaking could not have been so fully accomplished except by the unstinting and kind exertions of Edward Curling, Esq."

Proposed by Rev. Dr. O'CONNOR, P.P., seconded by Dr. Spencer:—

RESOLVED—"That we feel that the exertions of this gentleman, who spared neither time nor labour to promote the success of the project, and who, although not possessing a penny of land of his own, has contributed nearly £7,000 to its resources, demand a public recognition which shall be a lasting memorial of the gratitude of Irishmen to one who shown justice, and conferred benefits on society, in every capacity in which he has acted, and particularly in his character as a director of the Newcastle Railway."

Proposed by the Rev. A WILLIS, Rector; seconded by SAMUEL PROSSER, Esq., Manager of National Bank.

RESOLVED—That these Resolutions be published in the LIMERICK REPORTER AND TIPPERARY VINDICATOR, The Limerick Chronicle, The Munster News, and the Cork Examiner, and subscription lists be immediately penned so that landlords and their tenants, merchants and traders, and the whole community may have an opportunity of participating in this well deserved mark of respect.

Proposed by CHARLES MCCARTHY, Esq: seconded by W. B. DUFFY, Esq.

RESOLVED—"That R. T. Summerville, Samuel R. Prosser, and R. O'Sullivan, Esqrs, Managers of the National, Provincial, and Munster Banks, be appointed Treasurer, and Michael Moore, Esq. as Secretary; and that said treasurer be not empowered to disburse the funds without an order from the majority of the committee. That the following committee be constituted to carry out the objects of the meeting:—Hugh M. Gun, Esq. J.P., Joseph J. Purlong, Esq., Michael Lenihan, Esq., William B. Bowling, Esq. (D.V.C.), R. T. Summerville, Esq. Rev. Dr. O'Connor, P.P. (Castleisland), L. J. Curtin, Esq. D. M. Leahy, Esq., Charles M'Carthy, Esq. Rev. W. Walsh.

O'CALLAGHAN'S MILLS,
Within Eight Miles of Limerick, and Two of Tulla.

Important Sale by perfectly Unreserved AUCTION,

Forward two-and-a-half year old Heifers and Bullocks, Dairy Cows, Calves, Sheep, Horses, Farming Produce, Farming Implements, &c.

P. COLEMAN

HAS received instructions from the Executors of the late John Coleman, Esq., to Sell by Perfectly Unreserved Auction, at O'Callaghan's Mills, THURSDAY NEXT, THE 7TH INST.

The following valuable Stock, Sale of which will commence at One o'Clock sharp, with

76 Head of Cattle and Sheep,
11 Very Superior Cows and Calves. Three horses entered for the first race, for stakes of three sovs. and more especially while the Fenian movement was in progress, they had nothing less than a confection of sugar and honey. Then as to domestic politics, the Ecclesiastical question was put forward as the Constitution; and he must have both, no matter what Lord Derby may say to the contrary.

I believe the Tories trouble at the aspect of meeting Parliament. In every quarter you hear the cry—Disraeli is not to be trusted. Pamphlets have also appear from Hodges, Smith & Co., on the question of the Union, and Lord Derby's speech, the pamphlet, I hear, is very vigorously and powerfully written, and it promises great things on the part of Lord Derby. It is a strange fact, however, that though Lord Derby is one of the oldest living statesmen, he is one of the most uncertain in his sympathies and in his interests; and it is hard to believe that at this advanced period of his life he is Prime Minister and expect to follow a consistent policy for Ireland. I should hope, however, that he may have changed for the better, and that he wants to redeem himself from under the feet of the Opposition, he can very well do so by bringing in a large measure of justice to Ireland, and in so doing that he has really become of opinion that this country cannot be governed for a faction in contravention to the wishes and feelings of the vast majority of the people. One thing is certain, the Jes are palpitating; and the Outs are shaking with fear, lest the Jes should have some chance of obtaining what they lost by the indignant move of Mr. Gladstone regarding the Adjudicators. Years are continue to pass the Established Church in certain quarters; and an appeal is made to all who wish to see the Church be close up the chinks, and to make head that no detriment shall befal it. I am just after seeing a pamphlet to this effect which has been issued by Messrs. Hodges, Smith & Co.

I regret to hear that a good many excellent persons are laid up with the prevailing cold which has assumed the form of bronchitis—a most troublesome complaint, if it not speedily yields to the commencement of the attack. Mr. Dargan is so far better that he has gone to Kingstown for a change. Mr. little hopes are entertained of Catholic pub'isher and excellent librarian, has been ill for some days with a severe attack of the same complaint, and I am happy to learn he is much better. Many others, whose names I do not chose to mention, are also laid up.

PAGANINI REDIVIVUS.

"In compliance with the vociferous encore that followed, he appeared again; and, incredible as it may seem, he played a brilliant fantasia, without moving the right hand or the bow—this out-Herod's Herod indeed."—Morning Post.

Paganini Redivivus will perform the overture to William Tell upon one string, with a bow without hairs; Remembrance of Shakspeare, introducing the Bohemian Girl; Paganini's celebrated Fairy Dance, which he will execute without using the bow, with the left hand only, at M. Keller's grand Concerts, Feb. 11th and 12th.

RESIDENCE FOR THE PRINCE OF WALES IN IRELAND.—We are enabled to state that it has been determined to provide a residence for his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales in Ireland, and that the Prince will spend some portion of every year amongst the people whom he will yet be called upon to rule. Since the accession of the present Ministry to office, the policy and wisdom of residing in Ireland for some years past has been frequently urged upon the Prince, who cheerfully undertook a mission which is in truth one of the first duties of Royalty.—Standard.

look at the question, whether in the broad grounds of humanity, of gratitude, or of policy, we find the most perfect assurance that this touching appeal will meet a response which will be no discredit to those to whom it is addressed.

DUBLIN—THURSDAY.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Fenianism has continued to occupy the mind of the I wrote to you from the Irish Metropolis. At that period, say about two months ago, nothing was so much feared by all classes as the bugbear which the clever ingenuity of the arch-conspirator, Stephens, was able to conjure up, and which, for the season, did its duty in throwing the Government into paroxysms of apprehension, whether real or affected, and the public into absolute terror. Just now, is it to show the danger which the world has escaped, experiments are being made as to the effect of the liquid compound called "Greek Fire," in causing the combustion of the most difficult to extinguish. It is well that a specimen has been put on the informal compound, and its qualities and effects, and that men can breathe freely, and betake themselves to pursuits more agreeable to their natures, than to the dreadful work of dealing the appropriate of a rebellion. I see that the sickly scapegrace which dare the honour to be known for serious remnant of benighted fanaticism in that town, has been committing itself in its usual unfortunate manner, in the matter of Fenianism, and taking no heed of consequences, or of what it owes to decency, if not to truth. The pitiful little rag is entitled to much notice of any kind. If you only refer to its frequent escapades, and to the multiplied castigations it has won and lost at the hands of those who know how to apply the knout with exemplary vigor. You will agree with me. It is well that the creature shows its teeth—though it has lost the power of inflicting a bite long ago. There is no fear of any in Fenis who would suffer themselves to be moved by the folly of that indicrous specimen of a public instrument, which, as you observe, has obtained the title of the Pole-Cat of the Press—why or wherefore the Editor of it is best able to pronounce.

This city is absolutely crowded during the week; and though the weather is extremely dull and dispiriting, there is a very great amount of poverty and mendicancy prevalent here, and though these mendicants do not seem to be actuated by any feeling of the kind, if
