THE NEW CHURCH AT CASTLEREA.

DEDICATION CEREMONY.

SERMON BY THE MOST REV. DR. HEALY.

(FROM OUR REPORTER.)

Castlerea, Sunday.

To-day the new church of St Patrick at Castlerea was solemnly dedicated. The ceremony was carried out with the full splendour of the Church ritual. There was a large congregation which filled the sacred edifice. A large number of the clergy from the diocese of Tuam and the adjoining Sees attended, and the prelates of the Church, representing the secular and northern province, were present in solemn function. The church is a necessary building in the town. The edifice which replaces one of a distance of over a mile from the town, was inconvenient of approach, was inadequate to the needs of the population, and failed to realise some idea of a church. The new church should be inspired when entering to assist at the sacred ceremonies. The new edifice is a noble structure, which is imposing and is stately building, possessing many of the elements of beauty. The interior of the church occupies a good position on an elevated site, fronting St Patrick street. It is in the pointed style of architecture. The building is uniform and is divided into nave, aisles, and transepts. Aisle and clerestory windows are pairs of lancet lights. The chancel has a handsome traceried five-light window, and a similar window pierces the front gable over the principal entrance. The transept windows are also handsome ones. The height of the building to the roof ridge is 65 feet. It measures 165 feet in length in the clear and is 42 feet wide across the transepts. The walls are of faced ashlar with limestone dressings. The tower is a campanile, standing at the western end of the western or principal entrance. The height of the tower without its pinnacles is 90 feet. The principal entrance is a lofty porch, and the side aisles are flanked by turrets and contain handsome entrance porches. The interior of the church is very fine and imposing. An arcade of six pointed arches supported on octagonal pillars separates the aisles from the nave. The transept arches are 40 feet high with a span of 34 feet each. The organ gallery is above the principal entrance, containing the new organ, a very fine instrument with a large number of pipes and the full complement of stops. The windows which light the nave clerestory are filled with stained glass representing incidents in the life of our Divine Lord. One of the windows is the gift of the children of the parish. The chancel window is the gift of the present Bishop of Elphin. It is executed by him as a memorial to the late Bishop Dr Gillooly. There are stained glass windows in the transepts and aisles illustrating the lives of saints who were connected with the parish. St Patrick, the first Bishop of Elphin, and patron of the diocese, St Caeilin, St Kevin, and St Attracta. The window in the north transept illustrates incidents of St Patrick's boyhood in Ireland, and the subjects depicted in the south window are taken from scenes of Our Blessed Redeemer's preaching. The sanctuary floor is of Italian tiles. The nave is floored with timber with tiled passages. The sacred Bishop's chair, the Chancellor, the altar is beautifully sculptured. It is of Caen stone, with Italian marbles. The altar piece is in three panels representing the Annunciation. The font table is supported on four Italian marble columns, with richly-carved capitals. The reredos contains a representation of the stone of Calvary, and is flanked by niches containing statues of St Peter and St Paul. The side altars are in the same style as the high altar, and are dedicated the one to the Sacred Heart and the other to the Blessed Virgin.

The cost of the building exceeds £13,000, of which £9,350 was for the structure itself and the remainder for the internal fittings and decorations.

The church, which was designed by the late Bishop of Elphin, in conjunction with the chief of works, Mr John Scannell, was built under the supervision of the latter, and of Mr Clarence, of Ballinsloe. It will accommodate 1,500 worshippers. The building was completed so as to be admitted for divine service. There only remained the organ and the heating to provide for the former, which was made by Messrs Bevis for the Chester Musical Festival by Messrs Gray and Davis, was on sale at the time of the completion of the church, and Monsignor Bagshawe, the Papal nuncio, thought the organ and its appurtenances of sufficient merit to be purchased for the church. The organ pipes would involve an additional outlay of at least £300. The floor laid in the church may be put down at about £1,300. The heating plant in addition the laying out of the grounds and the enclosure with a wall suited to the building. The church has been carried out with marvellous celerity, and to examine it in detail one would suppose that a building so large, so massive, and so beautiful would require double the outlay that has been expended upon it. At the same time tribute must be paid to the energy and the religious zeal of the people of Castlerea parish and to the energy of the clergy, who collected subscriptions in other parts of the diocese, which was liberally given. The church was erected at a cost of thirteen thousand pounds, which is a little more than the convent and schools, which have been expended in the parish on ecclesiastical and educational purposes within the past decade by £20,000. Monsignor Hanly is to be congratulated on the power of organisation which he has shown and the energy that he has displayed in providing this splendid temple for Christian worship. Special trains were run from Galway, Westport, and Athlone, and Ballinrobe, and a considerable crowd of visitors arrived in the town.

The ceremony of dedication commenced at 11 o'clock. The Most Rev Dr Clancy officiated. It was followed immediately by the Most Rev Dr Healy, assisted by the Most Rev Dr Hoare, Bishop of Ardagh and Clonmacnoise. The assistant priests were the Very Rev M Byrne, St Mary's College, Sligo; deacon, Rev Michael Williams, Ballinrobe; sub-deacon, Rev Patrick Martin, Sligo. The Rev M Kelly, Sligo College, and Rev J Conroy, D.D., Castlerea, were masters of ceremonies. In the evening there was Benediction of the Most Holy Sacrament. The Most Rev Dr Lynster, Bishop of Achonry, preached the eloquent sermon suited to the occasion. The music delivered in the sacred ceremonies was the Litany of the Saints in Gregorian Chant, by Rico Sacerdotes, and the Mass of Angels, Gregorian Chant. The Kyrie Eleison was from Dr Smith's Mass Solemnis, and the Gloria from Hummel's Mass in D, the Credo and the Benedictus by Weber, the Sanctus and Agnus Dei from Gounod's Sacred Heart Mass. After the Elevation the Ave Maria, Ave Eit was sung. When the Mass had concluded the choir sang Dr Smith's Te Deum, and Mr Delany played solemnly the Dead March in Saul. The ceremonies were substantially those of a pontifical Mass of the Sacred Heart. The solemn ceremonies of the Mass were conducted with true devotional feeling by the choir of Sligo Cathedral. The vocalists were Mrs Gillooly, Miss Gillooly, and Mr Delany, R I A M, organist of Sligo Cathedral, conducted, and the fine and excellent of the choir spoke highly for his training.

The following bishops attended—Most Rev Dr Healy, Bishop of Ardagh; Most Rev Dr Clancy, Bishop of Elphin; Most Rev Dr Healy, Bishop of Clonfert; Most Rev Dr Lynster, Bishop of Achonry.

The following priests were present—Right Rev Monsignor M'Loughlin, V.G., P.P., Roscommon; Right Rev Monsignor Hanley, V.F., P.P., Castlerea; Very Rev Canon M'Dermott, P.P., Lenghyn and Lisacul; Very Rev Canon Mannion, V.G., Elphin; Very Rev Michael Kelly, Sligo College; Very Rev Canon Gallagher, P.P., Frenchpark and Kilkeevin; Very Rev Canon Gallagher, P.P., Tubbercurry; Very Rev Canon Coleman, P.P., Ogulla and Kilmurry; Rev M Feeley, C.C., Tibohine; Rev O Dwyer, C.C., Dunghiffen; Rev John Foley, P.P., Ballinamuck, Boyle; Rev Michael M'Manus, C.C., St Mary's College, Sligo; Rev J Conroy, Keane, C.C., Castlerea; Rev J Carney, C.C., Castlerea; Rev W Healy, C.C., Castlerea; Rev J O'Beirne, C.C., Castlerea; Rev J O'Keefe, C.C., Frenchpark; Rev Jas Martin, C.C., Ballinrobe; Rev J Gillooly, C.C., Sligo; Rev Thos Lavin, C.C., Glynsk; Rev John Keane, C.C., Roscommon; Rev Michael Hanly, C.C., Castlerea; Rev R Creighton, C.C., Ballingrec; Rev M Conroy, Ailin, Tuam.

After the High Mass,

The Most Rev Dr Healy preached the dedication sermon. He said that when the Jews were asked why they were rebuilding the temple of the Lord they answered in their wrath, "We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth, and we are building the temple which was built by the great King long ago for the honour and glory of God." So if any person were asked from Castlerea, from some years and were to return there he might exclaim in pride and admiration, "We are the people who set to build this temple and to rear these walls," and the people might answer in humility and in pride, "We are the people who in the temple which was built three many centuries ago for the honour and glory of God, was the blessing of God and the prayers of St Patrick that enabled them to build that temple to the glory of God and in honour of their own glorious apostle. The building and dedication of a church is one of the most important events that takes place in the history of a parish, for it exercises a lasting influence on the spiritual life of the people, brought men nearer to God, and rendered God more disposed to grant His blessing and His grace to the people. A beautiful church was a striking and convincing proof of the piety and faith of the people and of their zeal in the service of God, and what was more it was a lesson for future ages a memorial when they themselves were mouldering in the dust, of the generosity and the zeal of the people of the parish and of the people in this parish of Castlerea. In the church and its surroundings they could see reflected the spiritual state of the parish. The church was the spiritual home of the people, churches in a diocese or in a city, or in the chief cities of the country, were the reflection of the spiritual life of the people of the place, and what was more, when built they exercised an influence on the spiritual life of the people, the faith and the spiritual life of the people. The existence of the temple of Jerusalem was proof of the zeal and very existence of the Jewish people as a nation. When that temple was finally destroyed it was mentioned to exist as a race scattered through the world, but they had not ceased to be a people. No one ever stood under the dome of St Peter's at Rome and looked around on the magnificence and splendour of that glorious church who did not deem it as the living realisation in stone of the words spoken of old, "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it." And if it was true that the church and its surroundings were the mirror of the spiritual life of the people, it was also true that it was then had reason to be proud on that day and to be thankful for their share in the worship of God, and yet he should consider himself and the people of Castlerea, "noblesse" for they had impressed this on them that the building and dedication of the church was a work not entirely divine, was the work of God himself. They were merely his instruments and God had blessed the people, bless the house they labour in vain who build it. The blessing which had been invoked by the Bishop that day had placed that church under the guardianship of the Angels of God. As Wisdom's Pyramidon, 3 yrs, 7st 12lb

CRICKET.

I ZINGARI WEEK.

MATCH AGAINST MILITARY OF IRELAND TO-DAY.

To-day I Zingari, the famous amateur Irish cricket week, when they play a one day match against the Military of Ireland at the Viceregal Lodge. It is expected that the team will include, the following—Viscount Hutchinson, Hon G Coningsby, W J Brickwood, G D Thornton, Hon Robert Barbe, A H Evans, R B Chinnery, E M Dobson, C C Clark, and E Clayton. The ground will be open to the public and a military band will attend.

LEINSTER V. PEMBROKE.

The return match between these teams was played on the Leinster ground on Saturday, when Leinster had a much stronger team than on the first meeting, when the game ended in an indecisive victory after a match in which some good batting was witnessed. Pembroke won the toss, and batted in the first innings, Mr. J. O Walsh on a slow wicket, to the bowling of R. Lambert and Keating. The score was 50, for with only five runs registered Keating clean bowled Walsh for 3. On Thornton joining Mitchell, however, matters were bettered, the pair bringing the score to 78 before Thornton was held at long point off Keating, by which he had made 38 in sound fashion. After this Mitchell was the only one to do much good, being received other companions in rather rapid succession while the score mounted but slowly. In fact none of them at all could stay with him, and all were out for 60, Mitchell carrying his innings through the innings for a well-defended 24. Leinster then went in and very well, taking five wickets for 39, while Stewart getting out for 12, the team made over. Keating got two for 20. Thanks to a good bowling well supported by Lambert, Keating, 23, and Smith, 14, Leinster had passed their opponents' total for the loss of two wickets, but a very fine Stewart had been despatched that the last batting of the match was over, Keating and Lambert adding 112 for the fourth wicket in about an hour. "Lawn" was first to go, but Keating, who played the long field for a sound 65, which included 7 fours. Lambert hit in characteristically free style for 82, which was compiled without a chance so far as could be seen, and which included 9 "sixes," 9 fours, and 6 twos. When stumps were drawn the score stood at 248 for 5 wickets, so that matter had now by 198 runs and 8 wickets. Mitchell bowled well for the visitors. Score—

PHŒNIX v. CIVIL SERVICE.

The Phœnix played their return match on Saturday on the Civil Service ground, when Phœnix won by 45 runs. Batting first Phœnix started badly, losing three wickets for 5 runs, but with the appearance of Nunn matters showed good improvement, the team making up to 54 for twenty style (his score including 10 fours) Dillon and M'Cann added 42 for the fourth wicket, and the innings eventually realised 155. Bowling well on the side, for Civil Service they made a free show with the bat, and batting in fine style he was responsible for 65 out of the total of 105, for which the innings lasted. Nunn took 5 wickets for 39, and Mangan 4 for 23, while Drennan and W Bradshaw bowled well for Civil Service. Score—
